Recruiting Team Attends the 2016 Military Police and Law Enforcement Expo

Ft. Leonard Wood, Missouri

In the heart of the “Show Me” state lies the Army’s Military Police (MP) Training Headquarters at Ft. Leonard Wood Army Base. Last week the base was also the site of the 75th Anniversary celebration of the Army’s MP Corp. Events were held throughout the week, including one of the region’s largest Military Police and Law Enforcement Expos, sponsored by the Military Police Regimental Association (MPRA). The Expo featured over two dozen vendors from across the industry showcasing their products and services. The Expo kicked off with a leadership breakfast where senior leaders of military units and federal law enforcement agencies had the opportunity to network and speak with the companies represented.

The two-day event was attended by over six hundred visitors making this year’s Expo one of the largest to date.

Two members of Akal’s Recruiting Department, Eva Escape and Barbara Eubanks, attended the Expo and had the opportunity to talk to over 100 potential candidates about job opportunities with our company. Interested candidates were able to apply on site and be interviewed by one of the recruiters for both TSA and FPS contract positions.

Barbra Eubanks said “Military outreach is a vital component of Akal’s Recruiting focus. National Guard and Reserve members, along with transitioning active duty members, are some of the most talented and qualified jobseekers in the market. We want to ensure, through our outreach efforts, that veterans know who we are and that their experience will be valued and put to great use with the Akal Group.”

Following the formal Expo, Eva and Barbara also spoke to a group of over 100 Army Guard and Reserve MP Candidates, many of whom are interested in contract security jobs that leverage their military training and affords them an opportunity to maintain their DoD security clearances.

Eubanks continued “We appreciate the MPRA for providing this incredible opportunity to network with other industry vendors and meet directly with such valuable potential applicants in this region.”

This event marks the first in a series of outreach events the Akal Recruiting team will be participating in at military bases in the Kansas City and the DC areas this fall. More information about upcoming events will be available on Swordpoint and the Akal website.
